Foreign film fest, education, student experiences will be part of Gateway International Education Week

Gateway Technical College will hold a foreign film festival and a series of public events on all of its campuses the week of November 14 as part of international education week.

The films featured in the series include "Departures," "Howls Moving Castle" and "Children of Heaven," while the public events will include discussing Gateway student experiences traveling abroad as well as the value of world travel on a collegiate curriculum.

Gateway is holding the events to celebrate international education week. Gateway is committed to providing international education to students as a means to gain global marketplace knowledge and skills that make them more marketable to employers upon graduation.

All events and movies are free and open to the public. Events include:

- "Internationalizing Community and Technical Education," 12:30 p.m. Nov. 14 in Room 120 of the Center for Bioscience and Information Technology on Gateway's Kenosha Campus, 3530-30th Avenue. Geoff Bradshaw, director of international education at Madison Area Technical College, will discuss the value of international education and its future in the Wisconsin Technical College System.

- “Let’s Get Global,” 2 p.m. Nov. 16 in Room 120 of the Center for Bioscience and Information Technology on Gateway’s Kenosha Campus, 3520-30th Ave. A panel of international educators will share their experiences and thoughts into building international dimensions into curriculum and discuss the value of world travel for students.
- “Gateway’s Globetrotters,” 2 p.m. Nov. 17 in Room 112 of the South Building on Gateway’s Elkhorn Campus, 400 County Road H.
