Gateway to offer summer camps for middle-schoolers

Want to build a computer? Investigate a crime scene? Learn nail design?

Looking for fun, exciting and educational activities for your middle-schooler during the summer months?

Look no further than Gateway Technical College.

Gateway will hold its popular summer camps again this year with hands-on, fun learning, featuring such activities as making a computer, tap dance, creative nail design, theater, video game design and using a 3-D printer to design and build virtually any item. A total of 12 different camps will be held, ranging in price from $50 to $400. Eight are $65 or less each.

Camps are open to students who have completed grades 6 through 8, and held at Gateway's Kenosha Campus, Elkhorn Campus and the SC Johnson integrated Manufacturing and Engineering Technology Center. Space is limited, so those interested are encouraged to sign up.

To sign up, go to: www.gtc.edu/webform/standard-form/summer-adventures-kids
